AS MUD HENS MINERS ARE IT

EVERY PREVIOUS RECORD IN BATTING WAS BROKEN.

As a bunch of mud hens, the Elders will have to doff their caps to the Miners. Dirty Nora, the mud eater on the Midway at the fair grounds, could have had a feast that would have have had a feast that would have made Belshazzar's famous feast look like a cup of coffee and a sinker down at the ball yard yesterday, and there would still be enough sticky day left clinging to the ball players' shoes to feed a whole tribe of Digger Indians. The diamond was as slippery with mud as a newly frozen ice pond, and as a result everything hit was safe, if Lajole and Hans Wagner could have seen the way some of those Miners and Elders hit the ball yesterday they would be looking to their laurels as the champion batters of the universe.

Micky" Lynch as a Pitcher.

Micky" Lynch, the obstreperous third baseman of the Miners, essaved the task of pitching, and twenty-seven hits were all the Elders did to him. Engle twirled for the Saints, and the Miners, out of the kindness of their hearts, quit when they reached nine-teen. But in spite of this discrepancy in hits, the Miners won the game by a score of 15 to 12.

in hits, the Miners won the game by a score of 15 to 12.

Seventeen Elders left on bases tells the tale. "Micky" Lynch was lucky with the hits made off him—that is, lucky compared with Engle. The Elders generally started to hit Lynch after two men were out; then just as it looked good for a swat to clear the bases, someone popped a fly up in the air that reached a fielder's mit.

When the balls remained on the ground they were always safe. Every time an infielder tried to stop one he generally landed on his head. If a runner tried to take two bags on a hit he slipped while turning at first and had hard work to get back without being put out.

However, in spite of these slight difficulties there were some wonderful stunts pulled off. Such a slight thing as a player fielding the ball, slipping and falling down and then throwing a runner out from a sitting posture happened in every inning.

BOTH TEAMS PLAYED EXCEP-TIONALLY CLEAN BALL.

(Special to The Herald.) Colorad earned three of her four touchdowns be persistent end bucking, scoring once of a fluke. The Mormons were outweighter about fliteen pounds to the man, but made a plucky flight. The team work of the Boulder eleven was exceient, and the lighter line of her opponents was unable to withstand the terrific anslaught of the local aggregation. The game was a interesting one to the spectators, but teams playing exceptionally clean but and the contest was devoid of all un necessary roughness or brutality. The victory of the Colorado team was due to her heavier men and better tear work. The Saints' defense was not the best, although their offense play wa fairly good.
